Delightful Party.
Mrs. G. B. Greene entertained eighteen little girls yesterday afternoon at a delightful little party in honor of little Miss Dorothy Wells of Columbia, and little Misses Catherine and Marion Bolt of Laurens, three attractive visitors.
They spent the time on the lawn playing merry games, after which their hostess served a dainty sweet course. All were then carried for a delightful automobile ride, ending a very happy afternoon for each one.

Beautiful Garden Party.
A beautiful garden party was given Friday evening by Miss Frances Malor, Mr. Sam Major, and Mr. Charles Major at their home just south of town.

It was given in honor of their house guests, Miss Ida Brownlee of Abbeville, Miss Vera McPhail of Pendleton and Miss Izetta Pruitt of Starr. The lawn was attractive with myriads of Japanese lanterns, with benches and swings everywhere. From a prettily arranged old fashioned well, covered with ivy, delightful nectar was served all during the evening by Miss Jennie Cunningham and Sara Spearman, and later dainty refreshments were served. About two hundred guests were present and fully enjoyed this delightful occasion.

Tucker-Thompson Marriage.

Ranger Record.
A wedding of great interest was that of Miss Hazel Thompson of Ranger, Texas., and Mr. Ernest R. Tucker, of Anderson, S. C., which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Thompson, Wednesday evening, June 2nd, at 9 o'clock with the Rev. George E. Neils of Ft. Worth, Tex., officiating. Since the announcement of the engagement the bride has been recipient of several parties and showers given in her honor by her many friends in Ranger, and also in Baird where she has been teaching for two years.

The wedding was unique in that it was an all fresco affair. The large porch which was used as the bower for the musicians was artistically decorated with palms, ferns, masses of roses and cape jessamines; from this to the altar the grass was carpeted with white runners forming the central aisle of the miniature church. The altar was indeed beautiful with a background of ferns and potted plants intermingled with masses of cape jessamines.

After the assemblage of about a hundred guests, Mrs. Kirk D. Holland gave the first number of the musical program, "Because I Love You Dear," with violin obligato. As the first notes of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," fell upon the still night air the bridal party came down the beautiful white aisle. Leading was the bridesmaid, Miss Eugenia Simmons of Roysce City, Tex., followed by the maid of honor, Miss Ethel Rawls. Then came the little ring bearer, Miss Catherine Hodges, attired in a dainty frock of white with pink ribbons, carrying the ring in a tall lily. Following came the bride who entered on the arm of her father. As the bride approached the altar she was met by the bridegroom who was attended by his best man, Mr. Marvin H. Hancock, of Baird, Tex. Beautiful in its solemnity was the process-sion, and the Methodist Episcopal ring ceremony, which was most impressive with the Rev. Geo. F. Neils pronouncing the marriage vows. During the ceremony Traumerel was played and for the recessional the musicians gave Lohengrin's wedding march.

The bride was beautiful gowned in a crepe meteor, overraperies of maline caught with seed pearls. The bodice was combined with chiffon and pearl trimmings. A girdle of white charmeuse completed this handsome bridal gown. Her coiffure was a simple arrangement adorned with a single strand of pearls. She carried besides the bouquet of bridal roses a real lace handkerchief, a family heirloom.

Shortly after the ceremony the doors of the home were opened to a stream of guests eager to congratulate the happy pair. The decorations in the house being roses, cape jessamines and carnations. The wedding cake was cut on the porch where the guests also registered in the bride's book. An ice course was served.

Adams-Murray Wedding.

Telegraph.
The marriage of Miss Mamie Adams and Mr. Edward Bobo Murray was an event of wide social interest, taking place Thursday night, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Adams on College street.

The ceremony at 9 o'clock was witnessed by a large circle of friends and afterwards a reception was held. The beautiful home was handsomely decorated with Easter lilies, gladioli and peonies. In the spacious halls quantities of ferns and lilies were artistically grouped and tall floor vases with lilies were seen everywhere. In the drawing rooms a tone of pink was observed. Here gorgeous pink peonies and gladioli lent their stately beauty and diffused a gentle fragrance over all. And so each room had its own flower.

In the left drawing room where the ceremony was performed an altar was formed of Easter lilies and ferns, having for a background quantities of palms and other plants. The room was a veritable bower of flowers, baskets and wall pockets filled with great bunches of peonies further decorating the walls and the mantels were banked with the same flowers.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Dargan of the First Baptist church.
Little Miss Harriet Adams and Miss Mary Taylor recited the bride's prayer, each wearing the daintiest of white lace dresses carrying baskets of pink snap dragon. With broad white satin ribbons they formed an aisle for the bride and her attendants.

They were followed by the ushers, Mr. Dudley Woodward and Mr. Willingham Tift of Tifton.
Following came the bridesmaids, Miss Coraella Adams and Miss Mildred Taylor, Miss Camille Willingham and Miss Gladys Schofield, Miss Helen Barnes and Miss Leila Rogers, Miss Evelyn Estes and Miss Ruth Oberly, who were beautiful gowned in white taffeta, fashioned empire, with lace and net trimmings and touches of pink taffeta and quaint hoop skirts. They carried bouquets of pink peonies.

Mrs. Joseph Peed of Knoxville, matron of honor, was lovely in an imported gown of white satin and rose points. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride entered with her father, Mr. B. T. Adams, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. B. T. Adams Jr.
The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white crepe faille, trimmed in rose point with a foundation of satin. The tulle veil was hung from a lace cap interlaced with orange blossoms and the bouquet was shower of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Adams, mother of the bride, wore a handsome gown of white crepe taffeta with real lace and mecklenet.

A reception followed the ceremony. Gutterberger's orchestra furnished a most beautiful program for the evening and there were a number of attractive girls serving punch, including Miss Leonor Neel, Miss Adeline Small, Miss Gray Goodwin and Miss Ann Willingham.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Adams and one of the south's beautiful young women, possessing the most attractive characteristics and enjoying a wide popularity.

The groom, Mr. Murray, is a man of sterling qualities, popular in social circles as well as in business, and holds one of the chairs at Mercer University.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Murray left for a trip west, where they will be for several weeks.

Sloan-Foy.

Mrs. D. B. Sloan of Clemson College announces the engagement of her daughter, Neils Taylor, to Mr. John Treutlen Foy, the wedding to occur some time during the month of October.

Country Women Should Not Appear City Women.

In the July Woman's Home Companion Frank A. Waugh writes a very interesting article on "The Country Woman's Opportunities." Among other things he urges country women to invite their friends to eat with them whatever they happen to have; without the fuss and worry of special preparation. On this subject he says in part:

"I shall be sorry to see the day when the country woman thinks she must give a guest grapefruit with scalloped edges, and salads made after an embroidery pattern. Potatoes, boiled with their pebbles on, and eaten with salt and butter, a slice of ham from your own smokehouse, a jar of last summer's preserves, a loaf of homemade bread and a pitcher of milk form a meal that any country woman can offer a guest, with a minimum of labor and a maximum of pleasure for the guest. Don't let us superimpose city fashions upon the country table."

The Parliamentary Law Class.

A class for the study of parliamentary law has been organized by the women of the First Baptist church, with Mrs. Rufus Fant as teacher and Miss Vera Pruitt secretary. It meets at the church every Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and the lessons are thoroughly interesting and instructive. The first part of the time is given to study and the remainder to practice. It is very essential that the members, as well as the president, of an organization know something of parliamentary law; because as presiding officer is almost helpless without the co-operation of those in the audience. When we do know more about it, business meetings will be made interesting and not seem to drag along because we do not know what step to take next.

Y. W. A.

The Y. W. A.'s had a good attendance on last Sunday and an interesting program on "The Efficiency of the Union." Miss Vera Pruitt was the leader and she was assisted by Misses Nan Lewis, Frances Riley, Bessie Tucker and Cora Bynum. A picnic was planned to be held as early as convenient, and every Y. W. A. girl is asked to watch for the announcement and prepare to go.

The next meeting will be the last for the summer and the program will be in charge of the college-Y. W. A. girls, who have come home. Something interesting is expected.

The following officers were elected for the next year:

President—Miss Lucile Burriss.
First Vice President—Miss Annie Copley.

Second Vice President—Miss Inez Kay.

Secretary—Miss Lou Nelle McGee.
Treasurer—Miss Lou Latimer.
